

Famous supporters

of the network marketing industry

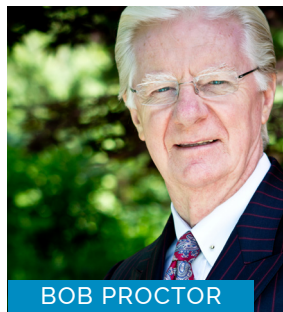

WARREN BUFFETT

The second richest man on Earth owns three direct selling companies: The Pampered Chef, Kirby Vacuums, and World Book Encyclopedia.

ROBERT KIYOSAKI

Best-selling author and real estate mogul praised network marketing in his book, "The Business of the 21st Century."

BOB PROCTOR

Best-selling author and lead of the hit movie "The Secret." Has been involved in network marketing for many years.

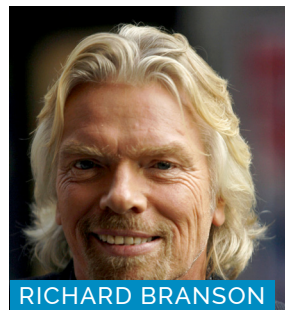

OPRAH WINFREY

Media mogul had a show with Robert Kiyosaki as the guest where she specifically discussed why people should join a network marketing company.

GRANT CARDONE

Praises Network marketing in his Millionaire booklet and also frequently speaks highly of it on his podcast as a way to generate positive cashflow to invest and learn valuable skills.

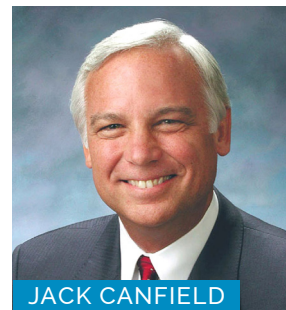

RICHARD BRANSON

Founder of the Virgin brand has been involved in several network marketing companies and also owns one called Virgin Vie at home.

ANTHONY ROBBINS

Motivational speaker and entrepreneur, Robbins pointed out the benefits of network marketing without the headaches of the supply chain. "Network marketing is amazing," he said.

JACK CANFIELD

Best selling author of hundreds of millions of books was quoted as saying, "Network Marketing has been nothing but good for everyone I know who's been involved with it ... it's a constant barrage of success stories."